

80's style indie rock. With stories about this world. Energetic, warm, melancholic and sometimes critical. Grown up in the 80's, they love the sounds of this golden era; it's in their blood. Talk Talk, Duran Duran, Pink Floyd, Tears for Fears and Peter Gabriel. Nowadays they get inspired by everything good like Radiohead, Editors, Elbow, Tame Impala & well, just good music.

Musically skilled, no stagefright and with enough experience in life to tell a good story or two.

So old music for old people? No f*-ing way. Energetic, driving and diverse, they bring high quality musical magic!

"Storm Will Come is a truly stunning debut work. Every single track on Storm Will Come is spectacularly beautiful, so much so that it's impossible for me to pick a standout or favorite. They're an amazing group of super-talented musicians who collectively create musical magic"

'You can label our style as modern 80's indie rock.'

Label it 'modern 80's style dark-edged indie rock (they're really indie, no record labels). Whatever you label it, it's all about making music, the best thing in life to do since they were born.

In the past they all made music in several bands like Soulstar, City Jam & Band of Glory and professionally as hired guns in the commercial music industry. With PTS, three of five band members played with Marillion in the late 90's.

'We don't do mic checks and shout our own name. We are 98% autotune free.'

Five street smart musicians who stand out in the studio and also live on stage. Their accessible, moody and energetic songs make Morgendust an ideal act for festivals and music venues.

Formed in 2018, they released two singles in 2019. Their debut EP was released Friday 13th 2019 at a sold out Hedon, Zwolle.

In 2020 they're planning two singles and a second EP and they will be playing some acoustic shows.
